Fire Plug's Spray

CERVAIS D. REDENBAUGH, age 25, a carpenter, residing at 539 West Forty-first street, Los Angeles, languishes in the Glendale city jail today, being held on suspicion of manslaughter, it being alleged that he deserted his pal, James Armstrong, age 23, who died early Sunday morning as the result of injuries received in an automobile crash.

The accident took place at the corner of North Central avenue and Lexington drive, shortly after midnight Saturday, as Redenbaugh was proceeding south on Central in a rented machine, at a rapid rate of speed. He struck a car owned and driven by H. V. Moore of 1057 Raymond avenue, Glendale.

Woman in Hospital
Mrs. Cora Snyder, who was a passenger in Moore's car, and lives at his home, is in the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital suffering from severe lacerations of the right arm, painful body bruises and shock. Walton E. Carre of 617 West Millard street, another passenger in the Moore car, received treatment for scalp lacerations, later going to his home.

Denbaugh and Armstrong, the latter a driver for a Los Angeles creamery company, were joyriding, according to accounts. (Continued on page 5)

POLICE BULLETS SLAY DESPERADO

Officers Riddle Burglary
Suspect in Gun Fight
In L. A. Streets

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Virtually riddled with bullets from revolvers of two police officers with whom he fought a gun battle early today, Manuel Antonio, 22, alleged desperate criminal, was fatally wounded and later died at the receiving hospital.

Nine bullets from the guns of the two policemen, Officers Moore and Burch, entered Antonio's body. One bullet from Antonio's gun struck Officer Moore in the breast and caused a painful wound.

The battle with Antonio took place at State street and Michigan avenue when the officers answered a call that a burglar had been routed from a residence in that neighborhood. When Antonio was ordered to stop by one of the officers he replied by whipping out a gun and started firing.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—G. B. Hamilton, a taxicab driver, and C. C. Heminger, a passenger in Hamilton's cab, were arrested by deputy sheriffs today at South Park and Manchester avenues when they engaged in a fight over Heminger's fare.

The taxicab driver claimed Heminger employed him to drive to the downtown district to the scene of a fire. He declared that Heminger refused to pay his fare. A woman who was in the cab fled when the two men began to fight.

David Donwell Held in Chicago By U.S. Marshal

BULLETIN
CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—David Donwell of Glendale, Cal., and Nettie C. Donwell, alias Nettie Brown, are being held by federal agents here today and the expensive car in which they drove from California has been seized, following the filing of an ancillary petition in bankruptcy against Donwell.

The United States deputy marshals are guarding the roads leading into Chicago from the west coast in an effort to seize two more cars which it is alleged, Donwell gave to two other women before departing from the coast. It is believed that one of the women is his former wife.

Donwell disappeared from Glendale August 7, 1923, having obtained $20,000, it is said by sacrificing securities, running debts and collecting bills due him as owner of the Premium market, 123 N. Glendale avenue.

SAVE CUBA'S PASSENGERS AND CREW

Divers Preparing Today to Salvage Pacific Mail
Ship's Bullion Cargo

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Survivors of the Pacific Mail steamer Cuba are being brought into port here today, all the passengers and crew from the shipwreck off San Miguel island in the Santa Barbara channel having been saved by the miracle of fate attendant on so many disasters off the coast of California.

The U. S. S. Reno, cruising in the vicinity, picked up most of the passengers, who were forced to the sea in open boats Saturday. The Standard Oil tanker W. S. Miller brought in the nine members of the crew who were reported drifting in an open life raft. Many of those rescued had safely landed on San Miguel island and presented a picturesque appearance upon their arrival in port here.

Had Plenty of Food
Plenty of food and water for the day's outing were reported, and women passengers tell of their success in saving their hats, after the Cuba went crashing on the rocks in a dense fog, shortly before noon Saturday. By midnight they were all safely stowed away on the battle cruiser and landed yesterday lacking their baggage.

In addition to the loss of the palatial liner, divers are preparing today to save $2,500,000 in silver bullion in the Cuba's specie tanks. Captain Holland and members of his crew stood by until it was evident the ship was in the last throes of sinking into the Pacific graveyard. Destroyers, which were part of a fleet featuring a more fatal wreck, also aided in the rescue work.

A heavy sea, confused radio messages, dense fog and changing tides have made navigation along the coast almost impossible, according to the mariners participating in the rescue. Lieutenant Commander J. R. Barry and members of the Reno's crew distinguished themselves in the rescue work, survivors state. Fifty-six men and fourteen women were aboard the Cuba.

CALIFORNIA HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Admitted to Union in 1850
By Millard Fillmore on
September 9

California celebrated her seventy-third birthday yesterday, when, at Bixby park, Long Beach, thousands of native sons and daughters, together with their adopted brothers and sisters, gathered to honor the anniversary of that historic September 9, 1850, when President Millard Fillmore attached his signature to the bill which made California a sovereign state.

An elaborate program marked the afternoon, with addresses by Mayor C. A. Baffum of Long Beach and Internal Revenue Collector Rex C. Goodell. In both talks, ringing tributes were bestowed on President Fillmore, and the material progress of the state in the seven decades and more of its affiliation with the government at Washington was stressed.

In numerous Southern California counties, Admission Day will be celebrated this afternoon, inasmuch as yesterday was Sunday. Los Angeles federal offices closed, with the exception of the internal revenue departments, it is reported. The Los Angeles postoffices shut down also.

The Glendale postoffice remains open as usual this afternoon, but not be affected, except that deliveries may be somewhat held up owing to the eclipse of the sun!

NEED MEDICAL AID

SEATTLE, Sept. 10.—Four hundred survivors of the Japanese earthquake, on their way to Seattle aboard the Admiral Oriental line steamer President Jefferson, are badly in need of medical supplies, according to radio messages from the ship.

Scientists' Efforts to Get
Photographs Foiled by

For International News Service

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 10.—"The chance of the century" for observing a total solar eclipse in the United States went glimmering at noon today when the coast of southern California was shrouded with a double blanket of high fog and higher altocumulus clouds.

The chagrin of the scientists over the disfavor of the weather gods knew no bounds. For three months the sky in this vicinity has been bright and clear—until yesterday. Last night there were thunderstorms attended by more lightning than has been observed in many years. Hydrographic statistics show that on an average September 10 is other than clear only once in every twenty years here.

Expense Is Wasted
"Our great expense has gone for naught," said Professor D. A. Mitchell, who has traveled 40,000 miles for the government in "picturing" the last four total eclipses.

"We went through with our program taking photographs through the clouds with long exposure and trying as best we could to measure refraction, heat changes, etc. However, we have little hope that a re-check of our work will prove of any value whatsoever."

It was understood that one observatory had insured its expedition against fog and clouds for $100,000 with Lloyds of London. The sum would not be sufficient to cover the expenditure of the Mount Wilson observatory, it was said, and estimates place the express account of several other expeditions at figures in excess of that amount.

GREECE ACCEPTS COUNCIL'S TERMS

ATHENS, Sept. 10.—"We accepted the allied ambassadors' note without protest or reservation to prove to the whole world that Greece is ready to make any sacrifices to prevent a European conflict," Premier Gonatas declared in an exclusive interview with International News Service today.

"Evacuation of Corfu by the Italians was not mentioned in our reply because we have entire confidence in the council of ambassadors to handle the evacuation at the earliest possible moment."

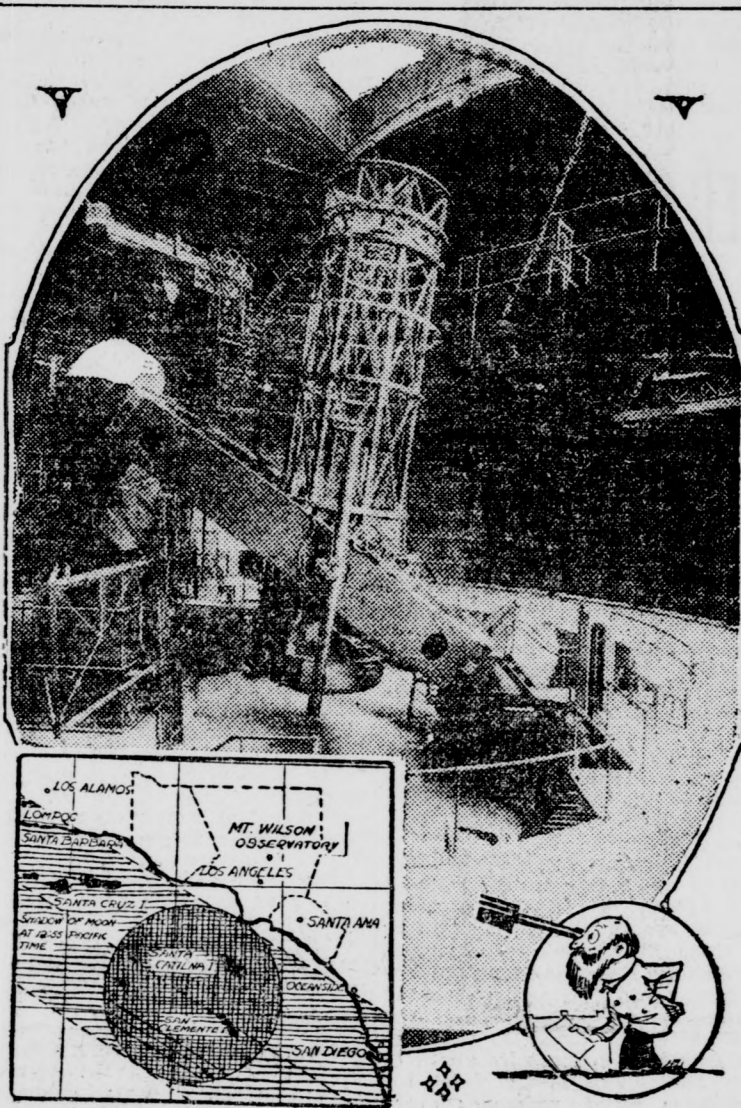

Colonel Plastiras, who became dictator of Greece immediately after the military revolution which overthrew Constantine, declared the Greek government welcomes any decision by the council of ambassadors, adding:

"We are ready to carry it out, confident that the final result regarding reparations will be based upon Greece's original offer. We have information incontestably establishing that Albanians were responsible for the murder of the Italians. This will soon be published."

"If the Italians refuse to respect the ambassadors' decision and remain in Corfu, or if they make further advances on Greek soil, we will fight to the last drop of blood."

"Greece will ask compensation for the persons killed in the Italian bombardment at Corfu."

Pacific Coast Scientists' Mecca For View of Total Eclipse Today

World's largest telescope at Mount Wilson observatory. Shaded path on map shows where moon's shadow fell and circle shows islands from which scientists observed total eclipse for three minutes shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon, but the clouds made it impossible to get a good glimpse of the solar spectacle.

Unusual Sight Enjoyed This Afternoon by Thousands Getting to Vantage Points Where Clouds Spoil View

By H. THOMPSON RICH, B. S.
Of The Evening News Staff

OLD SOL refused to pose for a photo today before batteries of high-power heliostats trained on the solar course from dawn at the Aleutian islands northwest of Alaska to sunset southeast of the island of Jamaica in the Caribbean sea. From Catalina island, the greatest crowds in the history of this popular resort beheld the phenomenon of the solar eclipse, seeing the moon begin to "cut in" at exactly 11:29 o'clock in the morning, continue its obliterating path until at 12:54:23 o'clock the moment of totality had been reached, then beholding the lunar satellite slowly edge out until at 2:18 o'clock in the afternoon this supreme spectacle of the heavens, which had raised aloft the eyes of the whole western world, was over—and the bored children of earth had experienced a new thrill.

In Glendale, where the period of the eclipse occupied practically the same period, totality was not experienced but a magnitude of 99 per cent was reached at 12:55 o'clock and continued for approximately three minutes, during which time almost every one of the 40,000 inhabitants examined the phenomenon through some type or another of light filter or "sun glass," as the device is popularly called.

Sight Is Inspiring
While the view of the heavenly spectacle from this city was inspiring, it was incomparably more so from Catalina island, Santa Barbara, San Diego and other points along the coast, where the sun's tremendous flaming corona of hydrogen gases in combustion reached out five diameters beyond the planet's surface in every direction, making a titanic, fiery disk eleven times the diameter of the sun, but it was held from plain sight by a high fog, thereby causing no end of grief for the scientists.

SEVEN U. S. DESTROYERS POUNDING TO PIECES WITH 22 LIVES LOST

Dense Fog and Changing Currents Given As
Cause of Navy's Greatest Peace-Time
Catastrophe Off Santa Barbara Shore

SILENT searchers of the sea today are scanning the Santa Barbara county coast for additional bodies of the twenty-two United States sailors lost in the "graveyard of the Pacific" when seven destroyers en route from San Francisco to San Diego piled up on the rocky shores of southern California late Saturday night.

It was an almost impenetrable blanket of fog that the Destroyers Delphy, Young, S. P. Lee, Nicholas, Fuller, Chauncey and Woodbury pierced at near Pedernales point, two miles north of Arguello lighthouse, near Honda, on the Southern Pacific coast line. Changing currents sent them crashing against the rocks along the shore.

Ten bodies have been recovered, two of which have been identified as R. A. Conroy, fireman, first class, of the Delphy, and "Squad" Pierson, fireman, first class, also of the Delphy. The names of other victims have not yet been made public by officials of the twelfth naval district.

The recovered bodies of the ten victims have been sent to San Diego. Thirteen seriously injured are in hospitals in Santa Barbara. A special train carrying over 500 survivors, officers and enlisted men, passed through Glendale en route to San Diego last evening. The task of rescuing survivors from rocks and cliffs in the vicinity of the "grave yard of ships" was completed late yesterday after heroic work on the part of the rescuers, many among them being officers and enlisted men of the ill-fated destroyers, who had made their way to shore by means of a raft.

Several Ships Lost
It was officially announced at twelfth naval district headquarters today that several of the destroyers will be unable to be salvaged. The Delphy, which was leading the squadron, is broken in two, according to advices received by The Evening News last night. Fuller has a list of 20 degrees to starboard and is in danger of being pounded to pieces, as is also the Nicholas and S. P. Lee. The Woodbury has a list of 40 degrees, while the Young is aground on her beam ends and three quarters submerged. The Chauncey is wedged between rocks above water and is upright.

HOLD JUDGMENT IN NAVY CRASH

Board of Inquiry Will Go
Into Causes of Worst
Loss Suffered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The navy department "suspended" judgment upon the disaster that befell seven American destroyers Saturday night and piled them up on the Southern California coast with a loss of more than a score of lives, Secretary of the Navy Denby said today.

Details of the wreck, Denby said, are not yet sufficient to permit an expression of opinion as to what caused the destroyers to plow into the rocky coast at a speed of 20 knots an hour. It is regarded as certain, however, that a board of inquiry will be appointed to go into the causes of the wreck.

The loss of the destroyers on the rocks of the Pacific coast is the greatest ever suffered by the American navy at one time, naval officers said today. They believe it almost miraculous that there was not heavier loss of life.

The navy department received the following message this morning from the commander in chief of the Pacific battle fleet.

"All survivors from stranded destroyers sent to San Diego by train and remainder by destroyer division No. 11.

"No movable material can be salvaged until heavy surf abates and then will require protracted efforts.

"Officers and men of Woodbury and Fuller reported saved. No further names nor further news."

EYEWITNESS TALES GIVE THRILLS

Sailors See Comrades Swept
Overboard as Ships
Pile Upon Rocks

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Thrilling eye-witness stories that rival the most weird fiction were unreeled here today as the 517 salvaged souls of the sea, refugees of the crash of seven United States warships on the rocks near Point Arguello, Santa Barbara county, passed through Los Angeles on a special train en route to San Diego, where the squadron was headed when the wreck occurred Saturday night.

The men and officers, half clothed and crammed into nine passenger coaches, many of them strewn in the aisles of the coaches, craved but two things, something to eat and some sleep.

Every man showed signs of hardships and many of them wore bandages.

Story Reveals Horror

One of the most tragic stories told by the sailor survivors was that of "Squad" Pierson, fireman, first-class, of the U. S. S. Delphy, who lost his eyes. Blind in both eyes, when his glasses were broken, he was washed overboard. Pierson was rescued, but, upon being brought on deck, lost his eyes and was again lost when the ship was broken in two.

All members of the crew gave unstinted praise to Commander W. L. Calhoun, in command of the U. S. S. Young, which tipped over within a minute and a half after she had crashed on the rocks.

Commander Calhoun, the men said, ordered every man to remain calm and stay aboard, which they obeyed without the slightest dissension as an illustration of the spirit of the men while facing apparent death in a fog that was as dense as ever experienced on the Southern California coast.

Sing and Whistle
Members of the crew of the destroyer Young started whistling and singing their favorite songs. Many of the men were modest and refused to discuss their actions, but were anxious to relate the feats of others.

One of the most thrilling stories was told of Chief Boatswain's Mate Peterson, who swam to the Young from the destroyer Chauncey. Peterson, his face still begrimed with grease and his clothes wet from having been in the water, modestly denied he

A total of about $2000 is reported as Glendale's response to date toward the $3432 quota set by the Pacific Division, American Red Cross.

VALLEY FARMERS SHORT OF WATER

Los Angeles Cannot Supply Needs In San Fernando Annexed District

Notice is served on growers of the San Fernando annex by William Mulholland, chief of the Los Angeles water department, that all applications for irrigation water on alfalfa have been cancelled, owing to the present low level of the reservoir supply in the San Fernando reservoir, which must be conserved for possible emergency in Los Angeles, if some disaster should cause the aqueduct to fail.

The decision comes as the result of a recent conference of managers of the three local water districts. Irrigation of deciduous trees and flooding of all kinds likewise come under the ban. Winter crops, now out of the ground, and the citrus acreage are the only exceptions to the ruling.

In Need of Rain
A slight shower at the headwaters would alter the whole situation and greatly relieve the present anxiety, which in any event will grow less as the season wears toward the inevitable rains of the Southland winter.

Alfalfa growers have little to complain of in the new edict. They have already had six or seven cuttings, enjoying more water than any other type of farmer. As for the walnut growers, the Farm Adviser points out that water on these trees after the middle of August is hazardous and may result in great damage, holding up the sap so as to lay it open to an early frost.

The limit, until relief comes, will be irrigation for months of $1 per acre per month. If a customer of the water companies wishes to put water on his land more frequently, he must cut down his acreage and use the increase on that remaining for $2 per acre per month is the limit.

George E. Hume, of the California bank, states that in the Pomona district, in the dry years of '98 and '99, where they were limited to sixty inches for twelve hours on ten acres of oranges once a month, which is less than 100 inches per month per acre, the "So," says he, "our limitation of four acres-inches per month should cause no hardship, if the water is properly applied and not wasted."

File to Annex
Legal petition to annex with Los Angeles has been filed by Larkins and is in the hands of the City Council. Charles Crawshaw, representing the citizens' committee of 100, which is furthering the issue of annexation, presented the petition to City Clerk Dominguez, registrar, by nearly 200 legally qualified and registered voters, which is more than sufficient to institute legal proceedings.

A careful check of the petition has been made and has resulted in the passage of an ordinance calling for election, so that all residents of the district may say "yes" or "no" to the proposition. The election will take place the first week in November.

Clouds Hide View Of Eclipse Corona

only non-magnetic ship, the "Carnegie," went calmly about his work of recording the disturbance of the earth's magnetic flux and compass eccentricities during totality.

Flyers Get Pictures
Another ray of hope to the scientists was the aid of the army and navy air station. Naval air station and Rockwell field began sending squadrons aloft at 10 o'clock this morning and kept the heavens full of machines until the eclipse ended at 2:20 p. m. Each airplane was manned by a pilot and a photographer. They ascended high above the clouds and snapped the phenomena at regular intervals.

Lieutenant John A. Macready, famous trans-continental non-stop flyer, at 10:45 o'clock took off from Rockwell field with Captain George Stephens, the army's crack photographer, to take snapshots of the eclipse from a height of 20,000 feet. Macready holds the world's altitude record.

Although the air services centered their activities above San Diego and a few miles out to sea in the center of the shadow, planes were sent to aerial stations mapped out at eighty-mile intervals between San Bernardino and Cape San Quentin, Lower California.

Clear Cloud Lanes
"Wireless despatches from the boys aloft indicate that they got clear of the cloud lanes at altitudes varying from one to two miles," said Major Henry Arnold, commandant of Rockwell Field.

"Of course, the work of observing the eclipse from a scientific angle by means of the airplane is merely an experiment. It is a pioneer feat and has no precedent. We hope with the astronomers that the work done today may be a foundation for future extensive investigation by means of the airplane."

REMARKABLE ECHO
So remarkable is the echo in a room in an Italian castle that sounds are repeated sixty times.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Wed In Glendale

Miss Vera Denham of Los Angeles, became the bride of Sidney R. Gorman of Glendale, Sunday afternoon, September 9, 1923, at a ceremony taking place at the home of the groom's father, Walter Gorman, 308 North Central avenue. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, was the officiant in the single ring ceremony, reading the marriage service at 2 o'clock. There were thirty friends and relatives present.

The Gorman home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with greenery and ferns and pink and white asters. A bank of greenery intermingling with which were pink and white asters, and a large white wedding bell suspended from the ceiling, formed a beautiful setting for the bridal party.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Holmes of Pasadena, sang, "At Dawning" (Cadmian), and later played the Lohengrin Wedding March for the entrance of the bridal party.

Miss Denham who is a very attractive and charming young woman wore a beautiful bridal gown of white flat silk crepe with a large bertha of real Duchess lace. She wore a beautiful white picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Bonnie Williams of Pasadena was maid of honor. She wore a frock of orchid crepe with a white hat and carried a shower bouquet of orchid sweetpeas and maidenhair fern.

Miss Aileen Mcmasters of Glendale was bridesmaid. She wore a pretty gown of apple green crepe with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas and fern.

Mr. Gorman was attended by his brother, Stanley Gorman, and a close friend, Paul Smith.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was held at the Egyptian Village. At this time the bride cut her beautiful three-tier wedding cake.

After congratulations were extended, the bride and groom left for a week's honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will make their home in Glendale on North Belmont street.

En Route Home
Wesley Kuhnle of 111 West Maple avenue, a prominent Glendale musician, who is now in Europe, sails for America Friday, September 14, on the steamer Albania.

En route home, he will spend some time for study in New York and Cincinnati, observing chiefly the methods of the "High-ups" in the music profession, before returning to his Glendale studio.

Mr. Kuhnle writes of an interesting airplane journey from Berlin to London, stopping at Bremen, Rotterdam and Amsterdam. In London, where he is now sojourning, he has been enjoying the summer symphony season. He has also had the pleasure of visits with the father and brother of Dr. Montague Cleaves, Glendale physician, and with the father of Winifred Hoole.

Although Mr. Kuhnle states he is loath to leave the wonderful music which he has enjoyed for months in Germany and England, he will, nevertheless, hail with delight the peaceful shores of the homeland, where he will endeavor to forget the dizzy task of figuring so many marks to the dollar.

The children are especially invited to be present for the children's story hour at 8:45. The later concert will begin at 9 p. m. and continue throughout the evening.

Home From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Preston of 350 North Jackson street returned Saturday from a fifteen-day camping and motor trip, enjoying the many points of interest and beautiful scenery in the northern part of the state.

At Lake Tahoe, where they spent several days, they experienced a severe electrical and rain storm which lasted for two days and nights, flooding the roads and making camp life rather unpleasant. They particularly enjoyed the trip crossing the Sierra Nevada mountains eastward, reaching an elevation of 7,400 feet on the Myers grade on the Placerville road. Here is afforded a wonderful view of Lake Tahoe and the many high peaks surrounding it.

One of the many interesting features of the trip was a visit to Donner Lake, where a monument has been erected on the spot where forty-three of the ninety-four pioneers of the Donner party perished from cold and starvation in the winter of 1846. Mr. and Mrs. Preston later visited the Big Basin and from there motored on to Santa Cruz and Monterey Bay, taking the coast route home.

Picnic Outing

The third annual picnic of Mary Jane Gillette Tent, No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, was held Sunday afternoon at Brookside park. Members of the Sons of Veterans and auxiliary were also present.

The next regular meeting of the Daughters of Veterans will be held tomorrow evening at the American Legion hall on East Broadway at 8 o'clock. All visiting Sons of Veterans and Daughters are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Federation, kindly requests that members aid by service and subscriptions the fund for the Japanese relief, which is being conducted by the American Red Cross.

Eyewitness Tales of Heroism Recounted

"did a thing," but was anxious to praise Commander Calhoun, whom he and the other men declared was the outstanding hero of the disaster because of the masterful manner in which he handled his crew.

Another thrilling account was that of I. T. Scotty, fireman, first-class, who remained aboard the Young until No. 2 grating was filled with water and then fled to No. 1 grating, where he remained until that place was also filled and barely escaped with his life.

Battle with Waves
"I was on the top side under the life-jackets," said M. Stallman, first-class seaman, of Brazil, Ind., "when the crash came. The jackets were thrown into the water by the impact and I was swept overboard. I found I. T. Scotty and a raft, which we managed to climb aboard."

"With three other men we battled with the stiff waves and current for some time and finally we found ourselves near a lifehouse from which a line was thrown up and we were hauled ashore. We were then three miles from our ship, the Young."

Stallman exhibited a bandaged leg which had been crushed. First Class Petty Officer C. Stevens of the Delphy, claimed he was the most fortunate man in the crash. This wreck was the third he has experienced, he said.

Just 'Slid Overboard'
He was in his aft quarters and rushed to the deck with the noise of the crash and slid overboard.

The Delphy and Young are a total loss, according to the crews, as the Delphy was broken in two places, one near the fan tail and one near No. 4 stack.

The Young which flopped over on her side, is said to be lost beyond hope, the others can be saved, they said.

TUJUNGA FAST WORKER IS FINED FOR FIRE

Ambitions, But Misguided,
In Assisting Friend
Cleaning Lot

Ambitious but misguided efforts on the part of two women and a man to clear their property at Tujunga of dry brush resulted in the arrest of D. S. Smith on a charge of starting a brush fire without a permit. Deputy Fire Warden Blaine made the arrest. Mrs. Rose and her daughter, Palomar recently purchased property on East El Centro street and intended to build on it. They took Smith, who lives in Compton, along to clear the lot. He decided the quickest and easiest way to do this was to set fire to the brush, which he promptly did. In a few seconds half a dozen nearby homes were in grave danger of vanishing in smoke. The home of Elizabeth Benedict at 508 East El Centro street and of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson across the street, beside several others, were endangered. Fortunately, a favorable breeze was blowing and the volunteer fire fighters who soon arrived quickly beat the flames down and had it under control a few minutes after the alarm was given.

Smith was taken before the justice at Newhall and pleaded guilty, receiving a fine of $50. Maine Folks Meet

A reunion of life-long friends was held at the home of H. C. Fortier at Pine and Monte Vista boulevard Sunday, when twenty former residents of Oldtown, Me., surprised Mr. Fortier by arriving unannounced for a day's visit.

The surprise was complete, as Mr. Fortier's friends are now scattered over the state of California, having followed his example and migrated from their former home town on the eastern coast long ago.

Mr. Fortier and his friends are all French or of French descent and the day was spent reminiscing in their native tongue. Among the party were Mitchell Duplessie and family of Los Angeles, Cook Sears and family of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael of San Diego, F. Duplessie and family and Mr. Danforth, former merchant of Oldtown and his family.

Mrs. Wetson of Los Angeles spent the week-end in Tujunga with friends. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buck have left for Arizona, where Mr. Buck is manager of a copper mine.

Teacher Returns

Mrs. E. A. Miller of Summit avenue, who was called to Cleveland, Ohio, recently, on account of the serious illness of her father, has returned to Tujunga. She is teacher of the primary grades in the grammar school. A dinner party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Hageman recently. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wilmet Parcher, Carrol Parcher and E. A. Miller. Mrs. Ensign Woodruff and Mrs. Anna A. Underhill were guests of Mrs. Jennie E. Barrett of Hollywood during the week. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wieman returned to their home at Dinuba, after visiting relatives in Tujunga, Santa Ana and other Southern California towns. Don Wieman, younger brother of "Dad" Wieman, the football star, has returned from a short vacation spent at the Y. M. C. A. camp near Arrowhead lake. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Milligan of Los Angeles spent the week-end at their Tujunga vacation home. Among the many out-of-town people who visited Tujunga friends and enjoyed the Moon Festival given by the American Legion were: Walden Pink, La Verne; Marian L. Reeves and family, of Moneta; Walter Jones and sister, Mildred, Los Angeles; Gregory Newhouse, Los Angeles; William Sauters, Mr. and Mrs. Gaston, Mrs. R. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. D. Smith, Dora Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Labory, P. McNeeley, all of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Austin Wood of Glendale.

Gigantic Oil Frauds Seen In Indictments

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 10.—Indictments charging that a gigantic oil fraud, aimed at swindling investors all over the United States, out of millions, have been returned by the grand jury here. Details of the scheme were made public today.

Butler Perryman, Houston oil promoter, alleged prime mover in the deals, S. E. J. Cox and nine others were named in the blanket indictment.

Perryman, it is charged, obtained control of eleven oil companies with an aggregate capitalization of over $22,000,000. Consolidation of the companies and stock sale was involved in the scheme.

H. A. Harrison Passes State Examination

H. A. Harrison, 221 West Lomita, has received official notification that he has passed the examination of the State Board of Accounting in auditing. Mr. Harrison formerly was controller for the city of Glendale. He resigned to take a position with Loomis, Dow & Company, certified public accountants, with offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles. He is still in the services of that company. His many friends here will be pleased to learn of his passing the state board's examination.

Aged Man From Delta, Colo., Says Son Is E. Coffey

TATUM P. COFFEY, an aged man from Delta, Colo., came all of the way from that place only to find disappointment in Glendale. He expected to meet his son, Elmer Green Coffey, in front of the postoffice, perhaps. Or, maybe he might be at the "general store." Glendale is such a large city he had to apply to the police in his predicament. They are caring for Mr. Coffey until his son Elmer is located. Anybody know Elmer? If so, phone Glendale 190.

MONTROSE C. C. PLANS DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERS

Publicity Committee Set at Work; Many Reports
Are Considered

The Montrose Chamber of Commerce opened a big drive for new members and authorized a publicity campaign at the regular meeting held in the Montrose bank building.

A thorough canvass will be made for members and the publicity campaign will be undertaken on a large scale, to extend over a period of a year. A committee comprising Theodore Belanger, A. F. Craft and Carrol W. Porcher was appointed to work out the publicity and are preparing literature to be sent out in addition to other plans. This was done on the belief that publicity will do more to further the interests of Montrose than anything else.

Committees were appointed by President Brown to take charge of important work for the coming year and chairmen of standing committees were named. The report of the cleanup committee appointed at last month's meeting showed good results on the campaign that ended Saturday. This committee consisted of S. L. Smith, W. L. Tollman and A. F. Hopkins. They reported that the response had been good and that considerable property had been cleared as a result.

Other Topics Discussed

M. S. Collins of the road committee reported that the prospects were good for having Montrose avenue cut through and graded and surfaced to Pennsylvania avenue before next spring. As this will be one of the most important routes in the valley this prospect is very welcome to residents.

Regarding the zoning of the townsite for the purpose of excluding sanitariums, the committee appointed for this purpose reported that Supervisor Wright had promised to see if something could be done about it. Objection has been raised to the sanitariums on the ground that they lower property values and endanger the health of neighbors.

The gas committee reported that the gas company had assured them that pipes would be laid in Montrose, beginning about the tenth of this month. Fred Anderson reported that the manager of the Glendale office of the telephone company told him that a new cable is already strung over half way from Glendale to Montrose and will probably be completed before the end of the month.

Some plans are also being made for a local exchange in the near future.

A committee comprising F. C. Coates, Jacob Kellar, W. J. Hickey, T. O. Potts and Mr. Clark was appointed to confer with the board of directors of the Crescenta Mutual Water company in regard to rates. They will report at the next meeting.

A. E. Sullivan was appointed by the board of directors to fill the vacancy created on the board by the resignation of Mr. Clark. C. A. Haskins also resigned and a member will be appointed to fill his place at the next meeting. Mr. Clark and Haskins gave press of other business as their reasons.

Buick Display Brings Orders for New Cars

The attendance at the display of the new lines of Buick models for 1924, that was held at the Tanner & Hall agency at 237 South Brand Saturday and Sunday, was close to three thousand people, according to Ray L. Galvin, sales manager, who kept close check on the visitors. As a result of the showing a number of orders for delivery as soon as possible were placed with Tanner & Hall.

The welcome that was given the new Buick models has already assured the local dealers of a bumper season, and every effort will be made by the firm to meet the demand that promises to set new records in sales for the entire season.

BURBANK INCREASE SHOWN IN P. O. RECEIPTS

Growth of City's Business
Is Revealed by Figures for Two Months

Burbank's postal receipts for the months of July and August, 1923, show an increase of over 51 per cent over the same period of last year, reports Postmaster Coffman. The same report shows the gain from January 1 to August 1 of this year to be 38 per cent over the first eight months of 1922.

Over 10,000 pieces of first class mail were handled on September 4 alone, the report shows. In addition to all the newspapers, parcels, circulars and magazines delivered by the three city and three rural postmen on that day. The following figures are given out by Mr. Coffman:

Receipts January 1 to August 31, 1922, $11,030.41.
Receipts January 1 to August 31, 1923, $15,227.28. Increase, 38 per cent plus.

Receipts July and August, 1922, $2,757.50.
Receipts July and August, 1923, $4,165.53. Increase, 51 per cent plus.

"All our carriers are very much overworked," says Mr. Coffman. "We have made an appeal to Washington for more help, which we expect to have at the beginning of next quarter, October 1."

"As the allowance for help is based on the receipts of the office, all local firms should help us swell our receipts by adopting the slogan, 'Buy All your stamps in Burbank.' As more help means better service, those who patronize the local office are in the end benefiting themselves."

Gas Building to Open

"The gas house gang" will be sumptuously housed when the fine new structure being erected by the Southern California Gas Company on Olive avenue is completed, which, states S. C. Singer, general manager for this district, will be "some fine morning soon."

The structure, which has a beautiful front, is finished in blue gum. It is modern and complete in every respect, and is understood to be the largest building the company has.

The local office in the new structure will be in charge of Mrs. O. R. Murnan, whose husband is employed by a newspaper in this city. E. L. Douglas, moving to Burbank from Van Nuys, will be a salesman in the appliance department, and George Vertefulla, who now lives in Glendale, will be foreman of the service department of the new institution, in charge of installing meters.

Mr. Vertefulla has had so much practice installing meters in "the fastest growing city in America" that he is expected to keep pace with the rapid and never-ending demand for Burbank installations.

World's One Big Circus
Coming to Los Angeles

The world's one big circus—Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined—draws nearer and on its hundred cars will come ten thousand wonders" to exhibit in Los Angeles September 12 to 16, inclusive. World toured and world conquering, this truly Greatest Show on Earth is now fully a third larger than it was when it last visited this locality.

In addition to the many innovations offered them, the present season's program numbers ten more trained wild animal displays—making thirty in all—and the most superb trained horse acts that Europe has yet produced. The wild animal and equine displays of the past were introduced merely that the Ringling Brothers might judge of their popularity. So enthusiastically were these many hardwired that the famous showmen immediately arranged for the purchase of the world's finest acts of this kind. An entire equine circus was bought outright and brought to this country last winter.

Streit Tells Topics For Association Meet

COMMENT That's All

Worrying About World
Booze or Gasoline! Which?
Changing Tides in Pacific
We Are What We Are!

By Gil A. Cowan

Is the old world getting nervous? One dear lady in Glendale refuses to leave her house today because of the eclipse. She is fearful that something will happen.

The Sunday editorial section of a city paper features an illustration and article on the hallelujah hour. Japan has been the scene of the world's greatest catastrophe and late reports state that twenty-two sailors lost their lives when a United States destroyer fleet went ashore last Saturday night off the rocky California coast.

May no black cat eclipse us! For, while we hold no superstitious belief, it does seem as though "cat" astrologies are coming close to home. Indeed, early Sunday morning the writer had to leave home and bed to take a dying victim of a motorcrash to the hospital.

All of which gives cause for some comment on public safety, in which you need not agree, but may as well read.

Booze and gasoline will not mix! A drunken driver deserves no mercy, for he not only endangers the lives of those traveling with him but scores of innocents proceeding along other wise peaceful paths.

The United States, California in particular, has reached that point where it cannot countenance the manufacture, sale or drinking of liquor. It needs not consider "temperance," but total abstinence and the man who buys and drinks booze is equally at fault as the one who makes and sells the stuff that cheats others out of fair and equal chance to live.

There was a time, perhaps, when whisky was quite the thing. We do not know of its value in drowning sorrow and filling the cup of joy. It has not been long since when a glass of wine with a meal was quite the custom. And beer gardens used to be most delightful spots. But in the ominous word of Poe's raven, "Nevermore."

The police were kept working overtime late Saturday night and early Sunday morning by three drunken parties. Only one is arrested, however, for the laws are such that officers are sometimes powerless to bring people to justice.

It is the suggestion of the writer that all agencies unite in one great effort to forever rid this land of ours of liquor—or throw the floodgates open and see how quickly those who insist on "personal liberty" can get under the sod.

Prohibition enforcement is not a moral issue. It is not an economic or political proposition, if you please, although it is claimed to be both. It is a measure of public safety. And the rights of the many are more sacred than the pleasure of the few. That is a fundamental of the constitution of the United States of America.

Changing currents in the Pacific ocean, as a result of the Japanese volcanic upheaval, may be given as the cause for the seven destroyers going on the rocks along the San Luis Obispo shore line. Certainly the navigators of these boats, worthy students of the sea, cannot be held for carelessness in one of the greatest catastrophes which has ever overtaken the United States navy.

In view of a passenger steamer also going on the rocks in the same vicinity it would appear that navigators in the Pacific will have to take the greatest care until the old earth gets settled down again. It may be that new islands will have been thrown up from the bowels of the ocean. Indeed, there is room for another continent the size of America between California and Japan.

There is every reason to believe, however, that if a referendum were taken on the subject the most of us would vote against the Creator disturbing things for the present, at least.

The eclipse today gives the thinking person an opportunity to wonder at science—to appreciate how much some people know! For you must admit that the bookworms have been featured the last day or two explaining just what we will see, what the eclipse may prove and so forth and so on.

Yet a little thing like an eclipse should not disturb us earthly ants clinging to our little terrain in this universe. The scientists tell us that our little show—the sun and moon and other planets we see with the naked eye—is but a one-ring circus compared with other systems some billion light miles away.

Yes'm, folks. "We are only what we are 'cept when we think we are what we aint," as the colored boy explained.

Announcement:

The Corporation takes this opportunity to announce officially to the citizens of Glendale and the surrounding community, that a ninety-eight year lease has been negotiated for a nine-acre site on the San Fernando Boulevard, at the foot of Colorado Street, in the industrial section of Glendale, for the location of their $300,000.00 Motor Truck Plant.

That a contract was awarded, on September 1st, 1923, to the Austin Company of California, of Los Angeles, for the immediate construction of the First Unit of this plant. This unit, the first of a battery of three, will be 400 feet long, facing the San Fernando Boulevard, and 70 feet wide; it will be absolutely fireproof, constructed of steel, glass and brick, and will cost, when ready for occupancy, approximately $70,000.00, and when fully equipped and ready for production will represent an outlay in excess of $100,000.00. The detailed plans for this building are now being prepared by the Austin Company, and as soon as they are approved by our Engineering Department, and the proper permit for its construction issued by the City of Los Angeles, the actual work of construction will be commenced, this date, we are assured by the Austin Company, will be not later than October 10th, 1923.

That the construction of the other two units of our Plant, of equal size and capacity, will be commenced immediately after the first unit is completed, equipped and ready for production.

That each unit of our Plant will give employment to approximately 200 high grade mechanics, some of whom we expect to import, with their families, from the automobile centers of the Middle West, although it will be the policy of the Company to first give employment to competent men who are residents of Glendale and our surrounding community.

That at this time the Corporation wishes to publicly thank our efficient Chamber of Commerce, its officers and Directors, for their untiring efforts and unfailing courtesy shown our Officials at the time we were investigating the numerous locations which we had been offered in Southern California, and also for the cordial invitation and promise of hearty co-operation so graciously extended to us at that time.

That it is the earnest desire of everyone connected with the Corporation, its Directorate and Officers to make this Company the first and foremost Motor Truck Plant on the Pacific Coast—one that all Glendalians can point to with pride and satisfaction; that it will take its place among the other business institutions of the "JEWEL CITY," and will do more than its share towards the upbuilding of our fair city, by giving employment to large numbers of Glendale residents, present and future.

That we propose to enlist and expect to receive the hearty co-operation and support of the citizens and business interests of Glendale and the surrounding community in making this project a worthwhile enterprise, as the success of any locality depends largely on its manufacturing interests. To this end we are offering an opportunity to them to invest in the securities of our Corporation, by and under the terms of a permit issued to us by the Corporation Commissioner of the State of California, under date of July 19th, 1923.

That we feel we have earned and merit the confidence, co-operation and support which we seek, and we point with pride to the list of our Directorate—to the men, whom with their money, time and effort have produced the wonderful truck which we are to manufacture, and especially to the five prominent business men of Glendale, who have identified themselves with this institution, and who will be the guiding spirit in the management of the affairs and policies of our Company.

In conclusion we bespeak for our representatives who will call upon you, your kind and courteous attention. These gentlemen will explain in detail the merits of our truck, wherein we excel all other trucks heretofore offered, and the wonderful opportunity of large returns on an investment with us, based not on theory, but on statements of fact relative to the accomplishments of other truck companies who had nothing in comparison with what we have to offer.

Respectfully yours,

Shipwrecked Sailors Go Through Glendale; Tell Many Stories of Heroism

SHOWING the effects of the intense strain through which they had passed since the wreck of their ships off Honda, near Point Arguello, the survivors of the worst naval disaster in the history of the United States navy passed through Glendale last night aboard the Southern Pacific special relief train that was rushing them through to the naval base at San Diego.

Some of the men were bruised and battered from their battle with the waves and the jagged rocks that caused the wreck of seven of the destroyer fleet. Some bore wounds received in the titanic struggle to save their comrades and themselves, and all of them showed the effects of the nervous strain that they had been laboring under ever since the ships crashed through the swirling topkangs and piled themselves up on the rocks.

Jack won a reputation as a fighter about the mines and soon started to box in the ring. In one of these contests he knocked out, in one round, a tough fellow named King Hancock. This feat gave him a great deal of prestige and he quit work to take up the fighting game.

From the start Dempsey had the punch and his first scraps were won in short time. He possessed no great amount of skill as a boxer, nor did he know much about the scientific end of the art; but the punch, coupled with the fighting instinct, carried him along successfully.

Jack's first reverse was in a four round match with a middleweight named Jack Downey, who outpointed him. But in a return scrap Downey was flattened in two rounds.

When Dempsey came east his first match was at the old Fairmount club where Andre Anderson, a big fellow, was his opponent. Although knocked down several times, Dempsey always came up, and before the end had Andre all but out.

After fighting in the east until he had gained quite a rep, Jack returned west and along in 1917 began to show real form. Willie McEachan, Al Norton, Bob McAllister and Charley Miller were disposed of inside of two months.

It was when Dempsey fought Carl Morris in four rounds and finished Jim Flynn, Tom Riley, Fred Fulton, Porky Flynn and Homer Smith that he became the sensation of the day in the world of fistfights. Today he has developed into a grand finished fighter.

Jack is a sharp shooter, sending his punches straight from the shoulder. His pivoting body gets every ounce of weight behind each punch, hitting long or short with a lightning uppercut, swing, jab or hook, with force enough to flatten a man.

All this he can do from any angle, for he is always set. When he sends in a punch he does it in such a way that he shifts into a position to shoot in the other fist. He is as dangerous from a south-paw stance as from the orthodox position.

Jack can jab with his left or prod a man off balance to make him open up, then send in a right to be followed by a crushing left and then another right—all this accomplished through shifting his position by fast foot work.

Dempsey is as fast on his feet as was Corbett, something that he is seldom given credit for. His ability to hit with both hands from any angle is only possible because of his superb footwork.

Perhaps this phase of Dempsey's ability has been overlooked because of the fact that he shifts his feet with a gliding grace; he does not dance—rather, he moves with the stealth of a panther, swift, smooth, sure.

As for putting power into a punch, there is no man in the ring today who can hit as hard as the champion. For his size, Dempsey is a grand boxer and at lightning no heavyweight in all time, to our notion, has been his equal. Carpenter has never recovered from his body blows. In thirty seconds he fainted Willard into a knot, slipped under his guard and started blows that won him the title.

Dempsey fights with a serious earnestness, with lip curled back leaving a gleam of white fangs. He springs upon his victim with savage ferocity, with the fire of Jack is a sharp shooter, sending his punches straight from the shoulder. His pivoting body gets every ounce of weight behind each punch, hitting long or short with a lightning uppercut, swing, jab or hook, with force enough to flatten a man.

All this he can do from any angle, for he is always set. When he sends in a punch he does it in such a way that he shifts into a position to shoot in the other fist. He is as dangerous from a south-paw stance as from the orthodox position.

Jack can jab with his left or prod a man off balance to make him open up, then send in a right to be followed by a crushing left and then another right—all this accomplished through shifting his position by fast foot work.

Dempsey is as fast on his feet as was Corbett, something that he is seldom given credit for. His ability to hit with both hands from any angle is only possible because of his superb footwork.

Perhaps this phase of Dempsey's ability has been overlooked because of the fact that he shifts his feet with a gliding grace; he does not dance—rather, he moves with the stealth of a panther, swift, smooth, sure.

As for putting power into a punch, there is no man in the ring today who can hit as hard as the champion. For his size, Dempsey is a grand boxer and at lightning no heavyweight in all time, to our notion, has been his equal. Carpenter has never recovered from his body blows. In thirty seconds he fainted Willard into a knot, slipped under his guard and started blows that won him the title.

Shipwrecked Sailors Go Through Glendale; Tell Many Stories of Heroism

Some of the men were bruised and battered from their battle with the waves and the jagged rocks that caused the wreck of seven of the destroyer fleet. Some bore wounds received in the titanic struggle to save their comrades and themselves, and all of them showed the effects of the nervous strain that they had been laboring under ever since the ships crashed through the swirling topkangs and piled themselves up on the rocks.

Jack won a reputation as a fighter about the mines and soon started to box in the ring. In one of these contests he knocked out, in one round, a tough fellow named King Hancock. This feat gave him a great deal of prestige and he quit work to take up the fighting game.

From the start Dempsey had the punch and his first scraps were won in short time. He possessed no great amount of skill as a boxer, nor did he know much about the scientific end of the art; but the punch, coupled with the fighting instinct, carried him along successfully.

Jack's first reverse was in a four round match with a middleweight named Jack Downey, who outpointed him. But in a return scrap Downey was flattened in two rounds.

When Dempsey came east his first match was at the old Fairmount club where Andre Anderson, a big fellow, was his opponent. Although knocked down several times, Dempsey always came up, and before the end had Andre all but out.

After fighting in the east until he had gained quite a rep, Jack returned west and along in 1917 began to show real form. Willie McEachan, Al Norton, Bob McAllister and Charley Miller were disposed of inside of two months.

It was when Dempsey fought Carl Morris in four rounds and finished Jim Flynn, Tom Riley, Fred Fulton, Porky Flynn and Homer Smith that he became the sensation of the day in the world of fistfights. Today he has developed into a grand finished fighter.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons and, too, other church news:

'Master Builder' Theme Of Rev. Louis Tinning

At the Glendale Presbyterian church yesterday morning, the assistant pastor, the Rev. Louis Tinning spoke on "God's Building." He said that God's Word uses many figures to convey truth. "Christ is the head, the church is His body; Christ is the husband, the church is His bride; He is the vine, we are the branches. Christ and His followers are spoken of as a city, a family and a flock. But a wonderful metaphor is here, 'Ye are God's building.'"

"Here the architect is God. He made the world, and later came to dwell here in the person of His Son. When we consider this world and all the host of heaven, how wonderful are they. But greatest of all is the far grander building referred to in this text."

"The plan is different than that of any other building. It is a structure and suggests the perfection of order and stability and completion. The plan of men's buildings depends on circumstances, and they may need repair or additions. God's building is begun and completed on a perfect plan. It is never changed, for it is complete."

"Two kinds of material are used in the construction. One is supremely good, the other supremely bad. Paul says, 'Jesus Christ Himself being the chief cornerstone,' and Peter adds, 'Ye also as living stones are built up a spiritual house.' God's own Son is the foundation, and then we lock with wonder and gratitude on the material of the superstructure. The living stones may shrink and cry out at the heavy and constant blows, but the work goes steadily on till all that is unstable has been removed, and the precise pattern of the wise Master-builder for each particular part, has been reproduced."

John's Confession Is Christian's Example

"The Christian Confession Concerning Jesus" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Concordia Lutheran church.

"When John the Baptist preached in the wilderness," remarked Rev. Henry O. Kringle, "the longing and waiting for the promised Messiah had reached its highest pitch in Israel. When, therefore, John arose and testified himself like an ancient prophet, living the life of a hermit in the wilderness, clothed in camel's hair, feeding on locusts and wild honey, and preaching with great power that the Kingdom of God was right at hand, the whole country round about was wild with excitement. We are told that Jerusalem and all Judea and all the region round about Jordan went out to him."

"The people heard his thundering sermons bidding them to repent of their sins. They were baptized and confessed their wrongs. The people thought that he was the Christ."

"But John confessed, 'I am not the Christ.' He confessed Christ, that He would soon come and that He was the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world! John made a noble confession, a model confession to be imitated by every Christian."

Methodists Donate To Japanese Relief

Rev. J. C. Livingston addressed his congregation at the Casa Verdugo Methodist church Sunday morning, taking for his theme, "Phantoms." The choir rendered an anthem, "Unto Thee, O Lord." At the close of the service an appeal was made for funds for the stricken people of Japan, and a generous contribution was made. At the evening service the pastor delivered a sermon on "Harvest Fields."

Mrs. Weidman Soloist

Mrs. Charles J. Weidman of 119 North Kenwood street was the soloist yesterday morning at the Central Christian church.

Receive New Members

The Lord's Supper followed Rev. E. E. Ford's sermon "Bound Together" at the First Baptist church. A number of new members were received into the church.

Rev. Mullen Preaches

"Mr. Great-Heart and Mr. Close-Fist Go to Church" was the topic of Rev. H. C. Mullen last night at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.

CLASS RIVALRIES CAUSES OF EVIL

Social Obligations Must Be Carried Out, Declares Pastor In Sermon

"Our Social Obligations" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Congregational church.

"Racial, national, industrial, economic and class rivalries are rebirths of the spirit of Cain!" said Rev. C. M. Calderwood. "The narrow limitations of responsibility have been the cause of the great sins of the world."

"Our social system is complex. So long as we live we can't extricate ourselves from others. Our fact, our clothing, our comforts, our mental pabulum and our pleasures are gathered from the ends of the earth. To the extent, at least, that we have received from others we are indebted to others and are, therefore, morally responsible to discharge that obligation."

"For good or for ill we are bound up in a common destiny. 'No man liveth' or can live 'unto himself.'"

"We can't identify ourselves with others in political, industrial, economic and social life and not identify ourselves morally."

Way of Salvation

"We cannot save our souls in the cloister or the closet alone. The closet is essential to religious life, but the religious life does not end there."

"To seek the salvation of your soul alone is concentrated selfishness. What satisfaction can there be for the Christian soul in witnessing the damnation of countless thousands of other souls even though itself is placed in safe deposit?"

"We can't pray 'Thy Kingdom Come' and practice our divinity in the closet, for God's kingdom includes human relationships. In God's kingdom is nothing less than a redeemed society."

"Are we to feed our souls on honey while we allow others to feed their souls on damnable poison?"

"We can't sing our souls into eternal bliss when Jesus could save His divine life by way of Gethsemane and Calvary."

"We can't rise to heaven on the shoulders of our brothers, we must go with them. Heaven is not a saved group, but a redeemed world."

"The salvation of our souls is inextricably bound up in our recognizing and assuming our social responsibilities. The life is not saved by an attempt to preserve it, but by losing itself in social regeneration. This is the teaching of Christ."

Power of Love Forms Funk's Sermon Theme

"The Power of Forgiving Love" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning in the hall of the Chamber of Commerce building before the congregation of the First Lutheran church.

Dr. H. C. Funk called attention to the fact that the Apostles' Creed contains the statement, "I believe in the forgiveness of sins."

"What this sinful old world of ours needs above many other things is assurance that there is forgiveness," he continued. "Indeed, the need of remission is universal, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

"The psalmist knew by bitter experience the meaning of what he wrote when he declared, 'Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven.'"

"Again, let us hear the words of the Master: 'But I say unto you, love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you.'"

"The man who is willing to yield, or to forget himself in the service of others, will in the end be honored of God and his fellowmen. When I learn that some one has injured me, I frequently go out of my road a good ways to do such a person a kindness, because I believe in the power of forgiving love. Going about doing good, as the Master did, is the most effective plan on earth in overcoming evil. This disposition denotes the highest type of Christian virtue, and brings the surest reward."

WIDER BROADWAY TO BE DISCUSSED

Meeting Called for Tuesday Night by O. M. Newby Of Association

Widening of West Broadway, from Central to Pacific, through condemnation proceedings, will be discussed at a public meeting to be held Tuesday night, September 11, at 8 o'clock in the office of O. M. Newby, president of the West Broadway Improvement association, 107 South Central.

All property owners on West Broadway between Central and Pacific are urged to attend, stated President Newby.

Some time ago the association sought to have a setback line of ten feet on each side established on West Broadway from Central to the San Fernando road. It is understood that about 1500 feet of frontage was signed up.

"However, we are informed by city officials that the setback could not be made to stick legally," said President Newby. "So, we are calling this meeting for tomorrow night in the hope that condemnation proceedings may be started to secure the widening of the street ten feet each side."

"It is the purpose to first widen West Broadway from Central to Pacific and, later, from Pacific to the San Fernando road. It is estimated that the proceedings will take several years to carry to a successful conclusion, so we want an immediate start, if possible."

Pretty Girl Taken in Raid by Policemen

Aluga Ruder, pretty and petite, perhaps 18 years of age, and perhaps not, was taken in a raid last night by Glendale police officers when a motor party was found disturbing the peace on Patterson avenue near the city's park.

Douglas Ruder, who claimed to be her brother, and George Hughes are in the city jail, while J. A. Brockman and James Campbell, all giving their addresses as Los Angeles, were released on $25 bail, the charge of being drunk and disorderly standing against them.

A bottle of booze was taken as evidence for a hearing tomorrow before Police Judge F. H. Lowe.

Spirit of Right and Justice Is Essential

"Conquerors Through Jesus" was the subject of Rev. L. J. Millikan's sermon at the Broadway Methodist church yesterday. Taking for his text Romans 8:37, he delivered one of the strongest sermons ever heard by a Glendale audience. He paid his respects to modern sins, and urged his hearers to arouse themselves to their duty and privilege. He said in part:

"All the world admires a conqueror, for to become a conqueror one must fight; also he must be enthusiastic and in dead earnest over the object for which he fights. Alexander the Great attained fame as a conqueror by zeal and devotion to a selfish cause, while Napoleon possessed such a wonderful military personality it was said of him that his men claimed to feel his presence even a mile away. But a greater conqueror than either Alexander or Napoleon was the apostle Paul, for he mastered himself and his environment. He boldly declares we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. His fight was for righteousness over sin, and not selfishness over justice, as has been the case with most conquerors of fame. None of Paul's victories were prompted by some selfish desire."

"The spirit of righteousness and justice should completely possess the lives of Christian men, and the church of Jesus Christ ought to make it absolutely impossible for nations to go to war."

Power of Love Forms Funk's Sermon Theme

"The Power of Forgiving Love" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning in the hall of the Chamber of Commerce building before the congregation of the First Lutheran church.

Japan Tragedy Theme Of Methodist Sermon

"Japan's Great Tragedy" was the subject of the morning sermon yesterday by Dr. Henry I. Rasmus at the First Methodist church.

"Music in the morning included the singing by a quartet of Verdi's 'Sweet the Moments.' This was composed of Miss Isabel Esgrig of Burbank, Miss Dorothy Peart of 801 South Maryland, John B. Clark of 335 North Maryland avenue and Glenn R. Dolberg of 206 1/2 West Broadway.

"The evening service Miss Genevieve Mulligan of 321 East Chestnut avenue played a violin obligato to an offertory duet by Glenn Dolberg and Miss Isabel Esgrig. This was Bartlett's 'The Day Is Ended.'"

Heavenly Citizenship Is Help to Believer

Keith L. Brooks pointed out to the men's Bible class yesterday morning in the City Council chamber that the Apostle Paul, great as he was, did not approach in character his divine Master, and made some serious mistakes, as did others of the early disciples. The lesson was based on Acts 21 and 22.

After depicting the events leading up to the arrest of Paul, and the threat of flogging at the hands of the Roman authorities, Mr. Brooks recalled the fact that the apostle escaped this indignity by appealing to his citizenship as a Roman subject, and said: "We should not depreciate our earthly citizenship, which gives us great privileges and responsibilities. Earthly citizenship at best is temporary, but what about the soul? The privilege of heavenly citizenship brings the believer all that could be desired."

"Heavenly citizenship comes not by natural birth or merit, but by spiritual birth only," Mr. Brooks concluded.

If all ill thoughts could give us warning, With conscience clear we'd rise each morning.

SPECIAL TO 'COVERED WAGON'

P. E. Will Carry People In Theatre Party

INDIAN WOMAN AND PAPOOSE
They are "doing their bit" in "Pioneer Days," the prologue to "The Covered Wagon" now showing at Grauman's Egyptian Theatre in Hollywood. It will be Glendale night at "The Covered Wagon" tomorrow night, with a special train on the Pacific Electric.

THE last minute rush for tickets for Glendale night at "The Covered Wagon," to be held tomorrow, Tuesday, at Grauman's Egyptian theatre in Hollywood, started bright and early this morning at The Glendale Evening News office, and all the present indications are that there will be a strong delegation of Glendaleans looking on tomorrow night when the picture is presented.

The Pacific Electric has arranged to furnish transportation from this city to Hollywood at reduced rates, and those who intend to use this means of reaching the theatre should purchase their tickets today, at the company's office 121 South Brand, so that the Pacific Electric may know what cars to furnish for the occasion. The special train will leave Brand and Broadway Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

"The Covered Wagon" is admitted by the hundreds of thousands who have seen its presentation, during the time it has been playing to crowded houses since it was first shown at Grauman's Egyptian theatre, to be a screen masterpiece of unrivalled beauty and charm, staged with a powerful cast that was selected solely for its fitness for the play, presented with a lavish and unequalled in any other production in the history of the screen, and carrying a story of American heroism and daring that is one of the outstanding features of the conquest of the west by the hardy pioneers, both men and women, who blazed the early trails across the continent.

The spectacular part of the picture include the Indian attack and massacre, the prairie fire, the buffalo hunt, and a fierce battle between the two leading male characters in the story, with speedy and thrilling action all the way through.

"Pioneer Day," the prologue to the picture, is a most remarkable episode and one that will not be presented on any other stage; one must go to Grauman's Hollywood theatre to see it.

BOYS BACK FROM ISLAND HOLIDAY

Hi-Y Students Wind Up Stay at Catalina Summer Training Camp

The eight Hi-Y boys who attended this year's session of the Southern California training camp at Catalina island returned Saturday night, September 8, with Coach H. L. Butterfield of the Glendale Union High school and Secretary Rex C. Kelley of the local Y. M. C. A.

The camp, which opened September 1, was made up of juniors and seniors from Southern California high schools. There were 100 at the camp, including leaders, states Mr. Kelley.

Two of the most prominent among those present were Dr. D. F. Fox, pastor of the First Congregational church at Pasadena, and Leon V. Shaw, likewise of Pasadena, for whom the camp is named.

Mornings were spent in Hi-Y classes where methods were taught and problems discussed. Mr. Kelley reports; afternoons were given over to hikes, fishing, games and goat-roping; while nights were spent around the camp fire, singing and perusing the "Daily Dew" typewritten newspaper, covering all departments of the camp's activity, including sports, local and foreign news, social and personal items and editorials.

Honor Glendale Boys

All the Glendale boys were elected members of the "Rag" society, for admission to which "unselfish spirit of service" is said to be the chief standard taken into consideration.

Each delegation attending the camp adopted a program of activities for the year. This program will be submitted at the first fall term Hi-Y meeting of each organization. Glendale's meeting will take place some time next week. During the various groups have each held preliminary meetings.

Those attending this year's Hi-Y session at Camp Leon V. Shaw were: Secretary Rex C. Kelley of the Glendale Y. M. C. A., Coach H. L. Butterfield of the Glendale Union High school, and Charles Thompson, Lyle McAllister, Ivan Carver, John Heideman, Robert Hatch, Kenneth Lee, Marion Morrison and Harold Jones.

Kelch, bass, and a tenor solo, "My Task," by Ashford, was also sung by Mr. Huddy.

In the evening the organ recital included "Russian Romance," by Friml, and "Tramontana," by Schumann, and a soprano solo was sung by Miss Perrine, "The Good Shepherd," by Van de Water. The quartet in the evening was "Keeping Watch Above His Own," by Wilson.

NEW STUDIO FOR KELLER SCHOOL

Glendale's Popular Dancing
Teacher Opens Classes
September 22

Pearl S. Keller, one of Glendale's prominent and well known dancing and dramatic teachers, is moving her studio this week from 109-A North Brand to her new studio at 140-A North Brand, which will be formally opened September 22 with a reception and program.

Miss Keller is having the new studio entirely remodeled and redecorated. The principal color scheme to be carried out in the ball room decorations is to be a rich blue. Beautiful hangings and draperies of blue velvet and net are being specially made for the large windows.

Miss Keller's wonderful work with children is recognized not only by Glendale residents but by the people of all southern California. She has accomplished wonders with children in both dancing and dramatic lines. Miss Keller announces she will organize a coming year hall room dancing for students of high school age and adults, which will be under the direct supervision of Miss Mary Grace Egley who was with Miss Keller a year ago, as assistant teacher.

Plans Branch Schools

It is also Miss Keller's intention to open branch schools throughout southern California in San Fernando, Riverside, and Longwood, and also in other cities. Miss Keller, who is a thorough Glendalean, states, however, that Glendale will be the home school. Miss Keller has been affiliated with Glendale professionally and socially for the past nine years, and has a host of friends and pupils. She states that it is her ambition, some day in the very near future, to build a studio home suitable for her activities that will be a credit to Glendale, which escaped the ravages of fire.

The Glendale school will always be under her personal supervision and the new studios which she expects to open this fall will be under the direction of assistant teachers. The Hollywood school, however, will also be under Miss Keller's direction.

Miss Keller, who has had a great deal of stage experience and who has been teaching dancing and dramatics during the past nine years, is a teacher of art that Glendale can well be proud of. Her work with children and the programs which she has recently presented have been highly commended by some of the most prominent dancing masters in America.

THIGH IS BROKEN

J. H. Strong, 215 North Maryland avenue, was struck by a cyclist Saturday evening, while crossing the street at Wilson avenue and knocked down. An x-ray that was taken after he had been taken to his home showed a fracture of the thigh bone that will confine him to his room for several weeks.

TRAFFIC DELAYED

Traffic on the Glendale & Montrose railway was delayed for a short time on Saturday afternoon when several telephone poles on East Wilson avenue, east of Verdugo Road, fell. The damage was repaired within a few hours.

of homeless persons whose homes and household possessions were reduced to ashes following the unprecedented earthquakes and subsequent fire of ten days ago.

Menace of Pestilence

Reports of the scourge of pestilence, an aftermath of the havoc wrought to the water systems and decomposition of corpses, are unconfirmed, but authorities here declared today that the menace of cholera and dysentery is inevitable because of the pollution of the only available drinking water and damaged foodstuffs.

Hopes for the safety of the Argentine minister, Senor Delcorril and his beautiful daughter, Maria Louisa, was abandoned here today by the Argentine consul, Minister Delcorril and his daughter, who was one of the most popular society favorites in the foreign colony, are believed to have been crushed in the crumbling of the Argentine embassy in Tokio, when the first quake struck that city. The Argentine minister was very prominently identified with the foreign diplomatic body of the Japanese capital.

Assisting Dickover

United States Consul General Johnson, accompanied by Vice Consul Wright, arrived in Yokohama to attempt establishment of headquarters there. Consul Cunningham of the Philippines, who is aiding in the supervision of relief work, remained in Kobe to assist Erle R. Dickover, American consul here.

Accurate estimates of the dead are as yet unobtainable. Estimates of the victims in Tokio, however, were placed at between 25,000 and 53,000 by couriers arriving here from the districts surrounding the capital city proper, which escaped the ravages of fire.

With the gradual restoration of communication to the stricken cities and adjacent countryside, additional and more accurate accounts of the havoc wrought by earthquake and fire are expected momentarily.

Silver Tongued Orator From Nebraska Speaks Under Auspices M. E. Aid

William Jennings Bryan, several times candidate for president of the United States, prominent in the councils of the Democratic party, and known as the "silver tongued orator," will deliver a lecture at the Tuesday Afternoon Club auditorium next Saturday night, September 15.

Mr. Bryan will speak under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist church, it was announced this morning by Rev. Henry I. Rasmus, the pastor, who also stated that preceding the lecture the Elite Quartette and Saxophone Club will give a musical program.

The musical entertainment will start at 7:30 o'clock and Mr. Bryan's lecture is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock. His subject is "Science vs. Religion."

"Tickets will be placed on sale Wednesday at the book store, 115 1/2 South Brand and at a location in the eastern section of the city yet to be announced. The admission is 90 cents, plus 9 cents tax."

"So, you see, the total admission is 99 cents—a bargain figure," commented Rev. Rasmus.

Glendale Japanese Lauds America's Help

"It almost chokes me to stand up in front of you to speak of the great disaster that has befallen Tokio and Yokohama," said T. Kuramaga, the local Japanese merchant, 135 South Brand boulevard, in an address at the Congregational church yesterday.

"I don't know how I can thank the American people in behalf of my mother country. When I was a boy I came here and adopted America as my own country. I am an American by spirit. Only fifty or sixty years ago, Japan started intercourse with all foreign countries and made wonderful progress till it ranked as the fourth nation of the world. But its civilization Japan owes to the United States most and now in trouble your people from border to border and ocean to ocean are working day and night with a Christian spirit to aid Japan for many true friendship of 1923 and blue true friendships. I thank all of you a thousand times for your great kindness and assistance to Japan."

GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1923

GLENDALE POLICE LURED AWAY BY NEIGHBOR CITIES

Local Department Serves as Training School; Low
Pay Causes Changes

Glendale's police department appears to be serving as a training school for other Southland cities. Members of the force are obtaining more profitable jobs elsewhere, according to current reports.

George "Sonny" Booth, motorcycle officer, resigned Saturday night to go to Burbank, where he will get $20 more monthly patrolling San Fernando boulevard on a gas bike.

Forest LaRock, another motorcycle officer, left the force yesterday, and today begins working for Pasadena with its Colorado street to patrol. Two other policemen recently took jobs in Los Angeles, all because of better wages, it is reported.

To Take Traffic Jobs
D. R. Arner, formerly detective sergeant, and Glen Hemminger, patrolman, will take up the motorcycle work here, while Chief J. D. Fraser will name new men to vacant positions, it is learned.

It is rumored that one or two other patrolmen are contemplating employment outside of Glendale, as the local department is one of the poorest paid among the larger cities of Southern California.

The City Council, particularly those seeking to lower the tax rate, cut the police appropriation to the core, and, while applications are plentiful for work on the force, as soon as experience is gained the men are inclined to go elsewhere.

Experience Necessary
While Chief Fraser has voiced no sentiment regarding the situation, those who are in a position to note the working of the department realize that one man who is experienced and knows the city is more valuable than two beginners at the game.

Considerable praise is due those officers who are staying at their posts, and it is expected the council will arrange some means by which further encroachments in the department will be avoided.

Larger Quarters for Local Awning Plant

With a view of giving more efficient service, W. T. Gilliam, manufacturer of awnings, has moved from his former location at 210 East Broadway to 222 South Brand boulevard, where he is now operating his business under the name of Glendale Awning & Tent company. Mr. Gilliam is installing new machinery for the purpose of manufacturing tents and awnings, also porch curtains and other canvas articles. He has a representative to call on the trade and will be pleased to keep this type of business in Glendale.

Grammar School System Faces Crowded Sessions As Opening Date Nears

GLENDALE'S grammar school system will open a week from today, Monday, September 17.

"It is very important that every child should enter school the first day and should be punctual and regular in attendance," stated Superintendent Richardson D. White. "Any absence may be a serious menace to class standing."

"Until the new buildings are completed, it will be necessary to maintain half-day sessions in the grades from first to third in some of the schools. In the rooms, where half-day sessions are maintained, the morning session will begin at 8:30 and close at 12:20, and the afternoon sessions will begin at 12:30 and close at 4:20.

"The schools in which it will be necessary to maintain half-day sessions in some or all of the grades will be the Acacia, Broadway, Central, Colorado, Doran, Magnolia and Pacific schools.

Permits Restricted
"Owing to the crowded condition of some of the schools, it will be impossible to grant permits to attend school in a district other than that of residence with the same freedom as heretofore. Parents desiring such permits should apply at the office of the Board of Education this week.

"No permits will be issued until the second day of the school term. At this time it will be possible to determine what conditions are. Parents are requested therefore, even though they have applied for a special permit, to send their children for the first two days of the term to the school in whose district they reside.

"The legal age for entering school is six years. However, an allowance of three months is made. No beginner will be admitted after Friday, October 12.

Kindergarten Rules
"The law states the kindergarten age to be from four and one-half to six years. This law is interpreted to mean that the child's fourth birthday must have occurred at least three months before the opening of the term. Any child who is six years old or older will not be admitted to the kindergarten.

"Parents are advised not to send their children to kindergarten until they are at least four years and nine months old. We have a kindergarten course of only one year, and if a child finishes that before he has attained the school age, he will either have to drop out for a half year or take the same work over again. A child of five will get more out of the kindergarten work than a child of four and a half.

Districts Outlined
Parents are urged to study the district lines as given below and to send their children to the school in whose district they reside, on the first day of the term. Please note carefully also the grades that each school will enroll. These district lines are subject to change either for a whole school or for separate grades if the first day's enrollment shows such a change to be necessary.

MEXICO MARVELS AT GLENDALE'S SINGING MAYOR

Spencer Robinson and Adolfo
De la Huerta Will Do
Duet, Is Rumor

Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale, now traveling "south" as a member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce trade excursion into Mexico, is carrying on the missionary work for Glendale in his usual effective fashion, as is shown by the fact that the correspondents who are accompanying the expedition have blazoned his fame and, incidentally, that of Glendale, throughout the press of the country by describing him as "the pride of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce excursion and the marvel of the Mexicans."

Glendale's singing mayor, they declare, sends his tenor voice ringing through the special train at all times and in a variety of selections, and it is stated that he is now training for a duet with Adolfo de la Huerta, Oregon's secretary of the treasury, who warbles a mean ballad himself.

Salesman, Boxer, Singer
Starting with the time when Spencer Robinson started off in life as a plow salesman, the correspondents follow him through his musical studies that were checkered with wrestling matches, boxing bouts, carrying a spear in an operatic company in order to hear the famous Jean De Reszke sing, training De Reszke to use his hands in return for music lessons, until he came west to Los Angeles and later moved to Glendale to get away from the fogs of the lower levels.

Mayor Robinson declared to the correspondents that most of his public appearances as a vocalist are at funerals, and he feels that he will have a little change from this particular style of singing now that he has reached the land of manana, the home of the tortilla, the frijole and other outlets for his exuberant personality that are not generally found this side of the border.

But what would the people of Glendale give to hear Spencer Robinson and the secretary of the Mexican treasury singing "Those Endearing Young Charms" or "La Golondrina" as a duet while the excursion pauses in Montezuma's old home town.

LOOK! CALIFORNIA HAS ITS OWN STAR

Every State Assigned Place
In United States Flag,
If You'll Notice

By ELSIE MAENNEL
113 W. Chestnut Street, Glendale
When the beautiful banner of the United States of America waves today, September 10, 1923, celebrating the admission of California as a state in the Union, can you tell which star in the field of blue is California's own?

This was made possible when the last executive order concerning the flag was made on October 26, 1912. It provided for a specific arrangement of the forty-eight stars in the field of blue representing the Union—each star a state. They were to be placed in six horizontal rows of eight stars, each row from left to right, and the star corresponding to each state is named in the order of its ratification of the constitution.

Starting with the first row in the upper left-hand corner (near the staff), No. 1 is Delaware; 2, Pennsylvania; 3, New Jersey; 4, Georgia; 5, Connecticut; 6, Massachusetts; 7, Maryland; 8, South Carolina.

Second row—No. 9, New Hampshire; 10, Virginia; 11, New York; 12, North Carolina; 13, Rhode Island; 14, Vermont; 15, Kentucky; 16, Tennessee.

Third row—No. 17, Ohio; 18, Louisiana; 19, Indiana; 20, Mississippi; 21, Illinois; 22, Alabama; 23, Maine; 24, Missouri.

Here Comes California
Fourth row—No. 25, Arkansas; 26, Michigan; 27, Florida; 28, Texas; 29, Iowa; 30, Wisconsin; 31, California; 32, Minnesota.

Fifth row—No. 33, Oregon; 34, Kansas; 35, West Virginia; 36, Nevada; 37, Colorado; 38, Nebraska; 39, North Dakota; 40, South Dakota.

Sixth row—No. 41, Montana; 42, Washington; 43, Idaho; 44, Wyoming; 45, Utah; 46, Oklahoma; 47, New Mexico; 48, Arizona.

Thus, California's star is No. 7 in Row 4.

Commemorate Admission Day, 1923, by some meditation as to what the flag really means. The stripes representing the thirteen original colonies, the stars in the field of blue the union of states, symbols of the making of our nation.

THE "SLICKER" OUTSIDE OUR GATES

C. M. Cunliffe Family In Love With Glendale

No more enthusiastic newcomers have ever entered the gates of Glendale than Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cunliffe and three sons, Donald, Niel and Harold, who arrived here Tuesday, August 21, just thirteen days after leaving Jackson, Mich., Wednesday, August 8.

The party accomplished the run in a 1921 Nash six-cylinder touring car, coming via Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Lincoln, Neb., Salt Lake City, thence over the overhead trail to Glendale, which attracted them so by the beauty of its mountains, pretty homes, their palms and flowers. They promptly decided that in Glendale they would live, and bought a home here.

Mr. Cunliffe states that their speedometer showed they traveled 3365 miles on the trip. The total of gasoline used was 149 gallons, for which prices ranged all the way from 15 to 45 cents a gallon, with 23 cents the price at Jackson and 15 cents the price here.

Living costs are materially lower in Glendale than in the east, according to Mr. Cunliffe, who points out that on coal alone a saving of $200 a year can be accomplished.

Mrs. Cunliffe's mother, Mrs. Wallace, lives in Los Angeles.

CHRISMAN PREACHES

Rev. C. H. Chrisman occupied the pulpit yesterday at both services of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. In the evening his sermon was entitled: "Woe Unto Them for They Have Gone in the Way of Cain."

In the morning he discussed: "The elements of genuine sanctification, the element of heart purity, the element of spiritual hunger, the element of heavenly joy."

500 Members Goal of Oakmont Country Club

The beautiful English type clubhouse of the Oakmont Country club at Sparr Heights will be roofed next week, reports H. M. Parker, manager. The first eight holes of the picturesque golf course that winds through the Verdugo valley will be ready for the thousands of pounds of imported seed, five miles of irrigation pipe having now been welded and ditched.

By December 1 it is hoped to have this $125,000 plant in operation, Mr. Parker states. Life members totaling 110 and 220 regular members, making 330 in all, have already been signed, and it is believed that close to 500 members will be on the lists when the Oakmont Country club opens its doors on that date.

Bids are now being received for the clubhouse furnishings. The executive offices are at 206 South Brand boulevard.

Tujungu Youth Weds Girl in Hollywood

A wedding of interest to Tujungu took place Sunday, September 9, 1923, when Miss Elizabeth Marian Otto and Knut Thorwald Thorsen were married in Hollywood.

Miss Otto is librarian at the Hollywood branch of the Los Angeles City Library.

Mr. Thorsen is a son of Mrs. Mary Thorsen of 273 East El Centro street, Tujungu, who has made Tujungu her home for the past three years. Mr. Thorsen is connected with the Pollock-Schultz-Boyd company in Los Angeles.

The young couple will spend a brief honeymoon at San Diego and will return to make their home in Los Angeles.

50 OLD SETTLERS CONGREGATE AT SOMERSET FARM

Enjoy Picnic Lunch and Talk
Of Yester Years Under
Sharer Shade Trees

Old settlers of Glendale, and some who were not so old, gathered together Saturday under the spreading pepper trees of Somerset farm on South Verdugo road, the home place of J. C. Sherer, president of the Old Settlers' association, where a picnic lunch was enjoyed and old times recounted.

It was a very informal affair, attended by about 50 residents of Glendale, some having come here in 1883 and others in 1923. The 40 years' progress of the community was quite in evidence as the motorcars circled into Somerset grounds on a shady lane originally intended for horse-drawn vehicles.

Cause for Recollections
Attorney W. E. Evans, who served the city as legal counselor for a number of years, and his friend, R. L. McCourt, arrived horseback, which caused some of the old timers to remember Don Julio Verdugo, who used to be seen mounted on an old white horse looking after his land possessions which took in all of what is now Glendale.

Mr. Sherer recounted how he used to ride back and forth to Los Angeles on his pony while serving as a telegrapher at Western Union's office. In an informal speech he told the picnic party that while he had planted fruit trees and had to uproot them as conditions changed, his late wife had planted the beautiful shrubbery which makes Somerset farm one of the natural show places of the city.

How They Got Water
Regarding the water situation in the early days Mr. Sherer said that the supply was two miles from his house and ran down along Verdugo road in an open ditch, arriving once a week. It was impounded in an underground reservoir and by an ingenious water wheel enough was lifted to a barrel on the side of his house to give a domestic supply.

G. B. Woodberry, who formerly served the municipality as city clerk, told of his recent trip with (Continued on page 4)

Diet in Disorders of the Skin, No. 1

The skin is one of the organs of the body by which waste is eliminated. The lungs, kidneys and bowels are the other eliminating organs. The skin may be irritated by any general disorder of the body and especially by any disorder which disturbs the elimination.

When this happens, there is a lowered resistance to external irritations—such as excess heat or cold, chemicals, plant poisons (poison ivy, etc.) and bacteria (the microscopic vegetations or germs which are always present on the skin). And pimples, boils, hives and other skin eruptions may gain a foothold.

It has been found in many cases of obscure eczema that certain of the foods being taken in the diet are not being utilized properly by the system, and some particular protein will be found to be especially irritating. The person is then said to be "sensitized" to this food.

Usually before this has happened there has been some irritation of the intestinal tract, perhaps produced by over-eating or the eating of improper things. This has not only crippled the production of the digestive juices but it has also weakened the digestive tract so that the undigested proteins pass through it, gain access to the blood and then to the skin and other organs; and, because they are not normal, they irritate.

Occasionally excess free fat has also been found to cause eczema, as I told you when I discussed fat. So the thing to do in eczema is to try to find the offending protein and eliminate that from the diet, and to cut down the excess fat if it is taken. It is often found that egg protein (the white of the egg) is the offender, and when the use of eggs is discontinued the eczema will begin to clear up.

Certain meats, especially veal and pork; sometimes certain cereals, and occasionally cocoa, chocolate, strawberries and potatoes have been found to be the irritating factors in eczema.

Laboratories are now giving protein to determine which protein is the offending one when it is suspected that disorders are caused by the proteins. The test consists in the injection of tiny portions of purified protein into the skin. When that body is discovered to which the protein is sensitized, the skin will show a little inflammatory condition, and it is then known which protein must be avoided.

Many eczematous babies are over-fat babies, and limiting their food so that they do not gain so rapidly will cause the eczema to clear up. Nursing babies who are eczematous have to be treated through the mother. The mother must omit the various proteins from her diet until she finds out which one is causing the trouble, and then avoid that one.

The eczema of undernourished children is exceedingly difficult to get rid of until the children are brought up to normal weight. The dietetic treatment has to be combined with external treatment for the condition, and if the eczema is severe the child should be under the care of a physician. In babies and children when eczema is extensive it is not without danger. When it appears on the face the babies sometimes have to wear masks to keep the necessary medication on and to keep them from scratching.

VERY SMART SPORTS TYPES

For the active sportswoman or her spectator-neighbor, this costume is equally de regueur. It consists of a blouse of flat crepe and skirt of French flannel, the skirt being attached to a semi-fitted bodice and laid in small side plaits. While Paris favors greatly the combination of crepe and flannel for sports outfits, other combinations of materials may be used quite as effectively. Medium size requires 2 1/2 yards 40-inch crepe for the blouse, and 3 1/2 yards 40-inch flannel for the skirt, with 1 1/4 yards 36-inch mull for bodice.

Pictorial Review Blouse No. 1746. Sizes 34 to 48 inches bust. Price 35c. Skirt No. 1608. Sizes 34 to 40 inches bust. Price 35c.

PARIS FAVORS LACE

"Lace is immensely in vogue," say the latest cables from Paris, and it is used here in very charming fashion on an afternoon frock of flat crepe in the new shade of brown called autumn leaf. The yoke and sleeves are of lace dyed to match, and the skirt is gathere and attached to the long-waisted bodice in a new fashion. At the sides it is drawn up to form a drape, while at the back it is caught with a bustle-sash of moire ribbon. Here the modes of the early eighties meet the straight-line effects of today in distinctive fashion. Medium size requires 5 1/2 yards 36-inch crepe and 1/2 yard all-over lace 36 inches wide.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1742. Sizes 18 and 20 years and 34 to 42 inches bust. Price 45c.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Mrs. Helen H. Gardner has recently completed her third year as one of the three civil service commissioners. She was appointed by Mr. Wilson, and was the first woman ever to hold that position. On several occasions she has been the acting president of the commission. She has made a specialty of helping women in government employ as the commission is a sort of appeals when trouble comes between the boss and the employee.

A new respect for the conscientious government employee and added contempt for the slackers, "who serve the government with one eye on the clock and the other on their pay check," is what three years of service as a government official has taught Mrs. Gardner.

"It has been three years of hard work for me, but there has been a joy in believing that I have helped a little in the direction of good government," she says.

FIFTEEN WOMEN MAYORS IN U. S.

There are now fifteen women mayors in the United States. They are: Mrs. A. M. Gault, St. Peter, Minn.; Mrs. Abbie Forest, Thayer, Kan.; Miss Grace Miller, Jackson, Wyo.; Dr. Amy Kaukonen, Fairport, O.; Mrs. Mary McFadden, Magnolia Springs, O.; Miss Scorp, Salina, Utah; Mrs. Ida Clark, Kokomo, Minn.; Mrs. Mayne Owensley, St. James, Mo.; Mrs. Mary Peterson, Red Cloud, Neb.; Mrs. Ella Jacobson, Waterloo, Neb.; Mrs. Helen Coe, Langley, Wash.; Mrs. W. H. Beall, Brewton, Ga.; Mrs. Estella Tripp, Rochester, O.; Mrs. Ethel Stoner, Colesville, Wyo., and Dr. Josie Rogers, Daytona, Fla.

Two men, sitting on a country store porch, were discussing the relative merits of medicine. They agreed that potions of more or less alcoholic content were preferable in most cases, says Judge. One told of having a bad case of the "flu" and of how the good, old-fashioned doctor had prescribed whiskey.

"He told me to take an ounce three times a day," explained the erstwhile patient. "Now I had no means of weighing the liquor and I didn't know exactly how to judge a dose. Finally I thought of my old school arithmetic and here I found the information I wanted."

"What did the book say?" asked the other.

"Eight drams equal one ounce," replied the fortunate one who had been cured by the remedy.

PURSE LIKE BOOK

A purse that resembles a book has been designed, its inventor believing that a thief would ignore it.

BEAUTY CHATS

INEXPENSIVE POWDERS

There is no special secret in the production of face and toilet powders, nor is a great deal of care necessary in making them. The best face powders are so exceedingly fine that only complicated machinery can produce the basic ingredients, but fortunately for the woman who must be economical these ingredients can be bought separately for less money than the mixed powder.

Bad powder contains lead or bismuth. Avoid these; they harm the skin. Good powder is almost entirely a vegetable product, with a base of starch and talcum, which is finely ground French chalk. The starch is made from wheat, potatoes or rice, and is probably all sold as rice starch. Mostly it's made from potatoes and it's very good, though it never can be as impalpably fine as rice starch.

If you want a powder that clings well to the skin, mix eight parts of talcum and two of boric acid. If you want a cheaper powder, for bath purposes or for cooling a perspiring skin, mix two parts of boric acid powder and eight of corn starch, the sort you make puddings of. If you want a face powder, one ounce of boric acid powder, two of talcum, two of corn starch, will give you an excellent one. Tint by adding very slowly a little powdered rouge, brunette rouge if you are dark, light blonde rouge if you are fair. Perfume by mixing a little sachet powder, or bury in the powder bowl a bit of absorbent cotton soaked in perfumed oil (oil of rose, oil of geranium, or what you will), stirring from time to time.

Liquid powders are harmful. In my opinion, they are too drying and always look artificial. Compact powders are hard to make. Buy them if you like to carry them about in your purse.

J. Mac C. Henna is a tonic for the hair so it cannot injure it in any way. It will take too much space for me to explain to you why you failed to get the right shade, but I will be glad to mail full directions for using henna if you send a stamped self-addressed envelope, repeating your request.

ents, which is a hair dye; however, you should have known that as the formula must have stated that it was an advertisement. As new hair grows out from the scalp, the natural shade of your hair will return. The dyed part will grow lighter in shade.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped envelope, enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

TIMELY VIEWS—WORLD TOPICS

"WHOLE ARMIES WILL BE PUT TO SLEEP BY GAS IN FUTURE WARS"

Whole armies put to sleep and taken prisoner in gas warfare are by no means an impossibility twenty-five years hence, says Col. Raymond F. Bacon, chief of the technical division of the chemical warfare service, A. E. F., in a paper made public by the American Chemical Society.

"I can easily imagine," says Colonel Bacon, "the official communiqué of the battle of Patagonia a quarter of a century from now, which would read as follows: 'Last night at 10 o'clock our airplanes sprayed on the enemy's position a new gas, soporific. This gas has the effect of putting a man to sleep for six hours. At 1 a. m. our troops advanced into the sections held by the enemy, disarmed the sleeping enemy, and the whole enemy army facing this sector is now being sent to the rear as prisoners. The number of guns and other equipment captured is enormous. We suffered no casualties.' (Signed) Blank, general in command."

With Trend of Research

"I realize that this sounds like a fairy tale rather than a statement made with a serious purpose, but it is not beyond the possibility. In fact, it is in line with the trend of research in this field."

The $2,000,000 spent on the research organization did more toward winning the war, Colonel Bacon asserts, than any other $200,000,000 spent in other ways. One of the greatest lessons of the war has so far gone almost unheeded, according to Colonel Bacon, who continues:

"This lesson was that large scale research can solve almost any problem. We had in Washington a research organization in which were gathered some of the best brains of the country. That research organization was able to solve every problem put up to it by those in command of the military forces. It showed that things which seemed to be impossible to do could be done and done in a rather short time by research where there were adequate resources of brain power and apparatus.

"If this government would efficiently spend a few million dollars a year on war research, methods would surely be devised which would make us absolutely safe from attack, without the necessity of maintaining such extensive army and navy organizations as at present. This is not an idle prophecy."

Gas Use Sign of Progress

"To say that the use of gas in warfare must be abolished is almost the same as saying that no progress must be made toward making warfare more efficient or more humane. If one reads of the great battles of history, one will find that the victorious general conquered his enemy usually because of the fact that he chose his position so as to have his flank protected by river, mountain range or some naturally strong barrier."

"Much of the strategy of these battles consisted in maneuvering so as to obtain the advantage of position. With the use of gas it is possible to saturate a piece of ground so that no troops can cross it, and thus make an artificial barrier for the flank or to protect the lines of communication. Moreover, these artificial barriers can be kept barriers for just as short a time as the strategy of the particular battle demands. These are but hints, but show the tremendous unexploited possibilities of gas in warfare."

An enterprising press agent took a troop of Russian dancers to a small town. Squire Witherbee was in the front row, says the Birmingham Ave-Herald.

"Well, squire, how did you like the Russian dancers?" said the P. A. after the show.

"They didn't excite me none to speak of," said Squire Witherbee. "But there was one chap who could jump up in the air and crack his heels together five or six times before he hit the floor. I'm here to tell you he was pretty good."

With laxity of duty your sense of obligation wanes.

TODAY: Germany No Longer Playground; Price Steadily Climbing.
TOMORROW: Traffic Towers for Chicago.
—By Kenneth Harris, Chicago Staff.

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
For International News Service

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Germany is rapidly defeating individual reparations. Ever since the mark began to tumble travelers from Allied countries have felt that they were "getting something out of the enemy" because of the high purchasing value of their respective currencies. It was possible to live in comparative luxury here for what at home would have brought but a bare existence. The cost of necessities and the price of pleasure were ridiculously cheap when put in figures of dollars and pounds. But all that has changed. The crisis brought about by continued economic pressure has in a few short weeks put Germany's cities on an expense basis paralleling that of London, Paris and New York, and belated tourists are discovering to their dismay that Germany is no longer a playground.

The dollar has become Germany's monetary unit. The crash of the mark came so suddenly that it ceased to mean anything, and all values came to be reckoned in dollars and cents. Now the man who has something to sell estimates its economic worth in units of Wall Street, consults the exchange, allows a safe margin in his favor for likely fluctuations of the day and sets his price accordingly.

To the purchaser the price means nothing until he reckons it back. A tradesman writes out a sheet of prices every morning before he opens his doors, and periodically during the day these prices are altered as reports come from the Bourse. A man who enters a shop to buy some shirts or sees the price raised while he is making his selections. In fashionable restaurants menu cards have been changed during a meal.

The widespread application of this dollar basis threatens the ruin of German finance, because the printing presses cannot keep up with the vicious circle. As prices go up workers demand more money, and business, functioning on a dollar basis, must have more marks to the dollar to meet the increase. And then the consequent depreciation of the mark leaves the workman in exactly the same position as before.

BILLY WALKER

Billy was telling Nannie about the exposition dogs, you remember. Of course there were good dogs, hunting dogs and dogs of every kind, but I did not care to stay longer as my presence seemed to set the dogs crazy and their keepers were having a hard time to quiet them. I saw one keeper coming toward me, a long pole in his hand which he had used to poke the dogs when they did not behave, and when they got back in their cages where he could not reach them with his hand. Thinking it might have a nail in it, I got out. Anyway, I don't care for dogs. Too many of them have chased me and bitten my legs and ears for me to love them. Shall we go and see the cat exhibit?"

"No," replied Nannie. "I don't like cats any better than you like dogs. Let's go into some of the state buildings."

As they were making their way to that part of the grounds where the state buildings were situated, several gentlemen on horseback passed them.

"I wonder where they are going," pondered Billy. "Say we follow them and see."

So the two trotted on behind the riders and soon learned that they were polo players on their ponies going to have a game on the polo grounds.

"Now we shall see some fun, Nan. I have always loved a good game of polo."

When they reached the grounds they saw that all the seats were filled with spectators, so they slipped in and stood in a good place from which they could get a fine view of the game.

The men played well, the ponies were in good trim, and the audience a most enthusiastic one. Billy grew more and more excited as the game went on, and was rushed across the field, grabbed the ball from under the pony's feet, and with one swing over his head trying to hit it, the ram across the field and placed it in just the right position to win the game for the players in whom he was so interested.

(Don't you wonder what the players did then?)

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FOUNTAIN PEN

"Uncle Wiggily! Uncle Wiggily!" called Baby Bunty one morning as she skipped up the steps of the hollow stump bungalow where the bunny gentleman lived.

"Yes, Baby Bunty, what is it?" asked Mr. Longears, as he picked the little rabbit girl up, for she stubbed her toe over a crack in the steps. "What do you want, Baby Bunty?"

"Will you please write a little letter for me?" asked Baby Bunty politely. "And then she had to laugh because Uncle Wiggily made his pink nose twinkle in such a funny way."

"What are you laughing at?" Mr. Longears wanted to know. "Oh, never mind!" chuckled Baby Bunty, for she was so polite that she didn't want Uncle Wiggily to know that she would laugh at his pink twinkle. "Just please write the letter for me, Uncle Wiggily!"

Baby Bunty called Mr. Longears "Uncle" when she kissed him, as she did just now.

"Does it seem of a letter do you want written?" asked the rabbit gentleman, as he took out his fountain pen.

"Oh, it's just a little invitation for Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wiggibobble, the duck children, to come and see me," answered Baby Bunty. "I'm lonesome for them."

Oh, what a funny pen, Uncle Wiggily!" cried the little rabbit girl, as she saw the bunny take a black thing, like a pencil from his pocket. "What kind is it?"

"This is a fountain pen," said Mr. Longears.

"Does it shoot up like a fountain in the park?" Bunty wanted to know.

"Ugh! Gurr! Boo! Sometimes, yes," answered Mr. Longears.

"Why, what's the matter?" asked Baby Bunty, as he saw a black spot on the bunny's pink nose. "Oh, how funny! Why did you put ink on your nose?" she asked.

"I didn't!" grunted Uncle Wiggily, rubbing his nose with his handkerchief. "The fountain pen leaked a little, Baby Bunty, and it squirted ink on my nose. But I guess it's all right now. I'll write the letter for you."

Uncle Wiggily began to write with his fountain pen, which was hollow, with ink inside it, flowing out as it was needed.

"There you are, Bunty!" exclaimed the rabbit gentleman after a while. "Here's your invitation letter and a finished one. Ugh! Goo! Zip!" he cried, jumping up.

"What's the matter?" asked Bunty.

"My fountain pen!" spluttered the rabbit gentleman. "It squirted ink all over my paws! Oh, I'm a sight!" And indeed he was. "I must get a new fountain pen," he said, as he washed the ink off.

But after Baby Bunty had gone to mail her invitation later, Uncle Wiggily forgot about getting a new fountain pen. He stuck the old pen in his pocket, twiddled his nose, which had just a teeny weeny smudge of black on it, and said:

"I am going off to find an adventure!"

He hopped over the fields and through the woods, looking this way and looking that way and, all of a sudden, out from behind a big rock sprang the Bob Cat.

"Ah, ha! I have caught you!" howled the Bob Cat, holding poor Uncle Wiggily tightly in his paws. "Yes, I guess you have," sadly said the bunny. "But what are you going to do with me?"

"Nibble your ears, of course!" snarled the Bob Cat. And then, as he held Uncle Wiggily tightly in his paws, the Bob Cat felt something in the upper vest pocket of the bunny. "What's this?" asked the Bob Cat, pulling something out.

"That's my fountain pen," answered the bunny. "Please be careful of it because—"

"Pooh! What do I care!" snapped the Bob Cat. He took the top off the pen. "Squirt—squirt!" a lot of ink shot in his eye. "Oh, wow!" howled the Bob Cat. He squeezed the pen because he was angry. "Blip—slob!" a lot of ink shot on his nose. "Zowie!" snarled the Bob Cat. He rubbed the ink from his nose and eye with his paw. Then he looked at his paw. "Oh, I'm turning into a Black Cat!" he howled.

And he was so frightened, because he thought he was turning into a Black Cat that the Bob Cat dropped the fountain pen and away he ran.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, whose ears didn't get nibbled at all. "Sometimes it is a lucky thing to have a leaky fountain pen."

So this teaches us that the blotting paper is not good for making nice puddings. And if the lead pencil doesn't take the sheet of paper off the doll's bed so she catches cold in her glass eyes, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the red ear.

POEMS THAT LIVE

TO MY MOTHER

How fair you are, my mother! Ah, though 'tis many a year Since you were here, Still do I see your beauteous face, And with the glow Of your dark eyes cometh a grace Of long ago!

So gentle, too, my mother! Just as of old, upon my brow, Like benedictions now, Faleth your dear hand's touch; And still, as then, A voice that glads me over-much Cometh again, My fair and gentle mother!

How you have loved me, mother, I have not power to tell, Knowing full well That even in the rest above It is your will To watch and guard me with your love,

Loving me still, And, as of old, my mother, I am content to be a child, My mother's love beguiling me From all these other charms; So to the last Within thy dear, protecting arms Hold thou me fast, My guardian angel, mother! —Eugene Field.

HEARTY THANKS TO SUNSET CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Oldright Appreciate Kindness Of Members

A beautifully worded and written letter from Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Oldright, resident of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, voices to The Glendale Evening News and friends their appreciation of the recent celebration of their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary with a meeting of the Glendale Evening News Sunset club at the home of Mrs. R. O. Holbrook and Mrs. Zilpha A. Parker at 426 West Harvard street.

They write, "We desire to write you a few lines expressive of our appreciation of the many kindnesses extended to us by the Glendale Evening News in connection with the celebration of the fifty-fourth anniversary of our wedding day on August 28, which took us so completely by surprise. "We also desire to extend our thanks to all those who so kindly lent their aid in so many ways in making the affair a grand success."

"We thank the News in giving the use of so much of its columns to an account of the pleasant occasion and we wish for all concerned many happy days in the 'sunset' of their lives. We hope we may have reunions in the days to come."

"There have been many responses from relatives and friends to copies of The Glendale Evening News we have sent them. They all express their gratification upon the honor conferred on us by the Glendale people."

Emery Family Return From Canadian Trip

Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Emery and daughter, Olive Bell of 329 North Kenwood street, returned last week from a month's trip to Canadian points, enjoying a most wonderful time. Glacier, Lake Louise and Banff were the principal places at which they stopped along the Canadian Pacific's scenic route. They also enjoyed a steamer trip up the coast on the palatial Ruth Alexander.

Mr. Emery, who is manager of Newmark Brothers' wholesale coffee company of Los Angeles, reports he never saw such a "bunch of tourists." At Louise the hotel management was forced to put people back on the trains if they had no reservations. Travel is so heavy it is necessary to prepare weeks in advance.

One may wash his face with apologies when he has failed in his promise.
